Torpedo was nominally favorite at 2 to 1, and 5 to 1 was offered for one. Hornpipe, Safety and Andantino made joint running with Ambassador and Triumph close together, Piccadilly next, and Torpedo lying off. There were but few changes of importance until after passing the stand a second time, when Reeler came out from the pack and closed with his stable companion, who still led the field at a merry pace, but immediately afterwards dropped away beaten. At the Widow's Monument the winner of the Maiden showed prominently, Ambassador at the same time hanging out signals of distress. Entering the straight, Piccadilly led from Hornpipe, closely attended by Herschel, Andantino, Nectar and Triumph, and to these half dozen the finish was confined, Mr. Dallas ultimately winning easily on Piccadilly by two lengths from Herschel, with Hornpipe beaten a fourth, Triumph fifth, and Andantino sixth. Torpedo pulled up lame. Time 3:51.

THE SUBSCRIPTION GRIFFINS.

The balance of the subscription griffins, 17 in number, for the Hongkong Race Meeting of 1888, arrived from Shanghai by the steamship Potang this morning, and were at once landed and marched to Kennedy's Horse Repository, where about a dozen sportsmen assembled at noon to take part in the pleasing ceremonial of allotting the racers in the rough to their several owners. Taken as a whole the mob were scarcely up to the 18 sent down by the Potang a few days ago, but several of the ponies were conspicuous for their size and racing like appearance. Those interested in the griffins were busily engaged in "shuffling" the animals when I arrived on the scene of action, and I, of course, at once assisted in the search for the flying white of which we have heard so much in the Shanghai papers. The distinctive marks of this wonder, said to be very faint, are "a circle on the near quarter underneath a crescent moon, to which is hanging two smaller circles," and they were eagerly looked for, but alas, were nowhere to be found. One humorous "sport" waggishly suggested that the writer who discovered these "chops" must have been seeing snakes; another offered to take his affidavit that a green pony, which will probably turn out grey or white, was the raja avis of the mob, and a lot more speculations were indulged in as to which was the animal that centered his six furlongs in 1.39 hard held.

The sight of the Clerk of the Course's lucky bag gathered us together for business. Mr. Fraser-Smith's name was drawn out twice in succession, and Nos. 24 and 25, the first a powerfully built white or grey, and the other a smaller but well shaped animal of the same colour, were passed to one side for the Robinson Road stable. Mr. Paul then had a turn, and No. 19, a black, but not a second Black Satin, was the strength of his draw. This pony is a very nice looking one, and as he has been clipped, he appeared to greater advantage than his long haired companions. Mr. F. S. Gordon was then lucky enough to get the next chance, and the result was the "green" animal alluded to above (No. 25), a rather handsome pony that ought to race, when once in something like condition. Mr. J. T. Chater's bay (No. 33) looked rather under-sized, but a sturdy customer withal, whilst the big skewbald which fell to Mr. Coxon's lot has size enough to carry its new owner to bounds. The big grey, No. 21, apportioned to Mr. Woodin, looks another weight carrier, and No. 26, a lengthy if somewhat leggy chestnut, might do Mr. St. Vincent's green jacket a good turn in several races. Another chestnut (No. 35), with a strong penchant for using his hind heels, was then allotted to Mr. Paul, and a shapely dark grey, almost a roan in colour, (No. 34) completed Mr. Gordon's quartette. This pony is unfortunately dead lame, his near fore leg, from his knee to his fetlock, being as thick as a bed post, no doubt owing to an accident in his box during the voyage from Shanghai. Mr. Bromhead next threw in for a big upstanding grey, and later on became the owner of a light chestnut (or dun) with a white blaze on his forehead, a nicely shaped but rather small pony. Another chestnut, a wonderfully made animal, short, stumpy and with what looked like an enlargement on his belly, became the property of Mr. Stiebel, who did not seem to be immensely pleased with his bargain, malgré the statement of a sportsman, lately returned from the north, that the queer looking chestnut had accomplished a good trial. Horses and ponies race in all shapes, and this one may turn out a gem of the first water, although his appearance is certainly not taking. A powerful dark grey (No. 28) should run well in Mr. J. T. Chater's pretty colors, and No. 30, another chestnut, might repeat Opal's successes for Mr. Paul. That good "sport" Mr. Kerfoot, only lately returned from a tour round the habitable globe, was not enchanted when a scrubby looking but not badly put-together dark grey (No. 31) was set aside for the McDonnells conference, and expressed some anxiety to arrange an exchange for another animal that had struck his fancy. A racing-like grey (No. 34) was drawn for Mr. Sassoon, which, with anything like luck, should be heard of later on.

As there are now over 40 ponies in the colony, training operations should quickly become interesting. With all our local owners returned from the north, a number of the griffins will doubtless be at exercise by the middle of next week. In view of this, I would again point out to the C.C. that the fence round the training course is dangerous and ought to be removed.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

FROM private sources a Shanghai contemporary learns that the Newchwang trade will close about the 15th or 20th of this month.

The German steamer Electra will leave the Cosmopolitan Dock this afternoon, the Spanish steamer Don Juan filling the vacancy.

The N. C. Daily News of the 6th inst. says it is reported that the steamer Ruri Maru has been sold to the French for operations in Tonquin for Tls. 40,000.

FROM a private letter, the N. C. Daily News learns that the French corvette Volla was to go direct from Chefoo to Japan, so that His Excellency Monsieur Tricou will not call at Shanghai.

The Mercury states that the heads of the murderers of the Mandarin Chang have been brought down to Shanghai from Soochow, where the culprits were executed, and are now hanging at the Old North Gate of the City.

HIS EXCELLENCY SIR GEORGE BOWEN, accompanied by the Hon. J. M. Price and Dr. Doherty, the Government Astronomer, inspected the New Observatory building at Kowloon yesterday afternoon. The building fast approaches completion.

MR. WOODHOUSE observing a Sikh police constable in Court this morning speaking to the constable in the dock charged with misconduct, &c., as reported in another place, directed Inspector Cameron to take the former to the Superintendent and report him for doing so. The glibulous one has doubtless been fined for this breach of the rules.

ABOUT nine o'clock this morning the German man-of-war Stein, which brought out a relief crew for the Stein a short time since, left the harbour bound south. As she steamed past the Stein, the crews of both vessels manned the rigging and cheered each other lustily, the band of the Stein playing a German farewell air at the same time. The humbats also fired off a lot of crackers as a parting salute to the late crew of the Stein.

SAYS the Shanghai Mercury of the 5th inst. — M. Tricou, the French Plenipotentiary, accompanied by the Captain and a lieutenant of the corvette Volla, and two other French gentlemen, embarked at Tientsin on the morning of the 1st inst. on board the steamship Wuchang for Chefoo, where they arrived at 9 a.m. on the 2nd inst. Mr. Tricou and suite went directly on board the Volla, which was waiting at Chefoo to convey the Minister to Japan. The Volla left shortly afterwards for Japan via Corea.

"Allons enfants de la patrie" or "any other man." So sang the summons of a few days ago, and, obedient to the call, and under the tutelage of that indefatigable recruiting officer, Mr. Henry J. Holmes, our worthy fellow-citizen, no less than thirty recruits of the full complement of 48 for B. battery of the Hongkong Volunteer Corps presented themselves yesterday afternoon for enrolment at head quarters. Punctually at 4.30 p.m. the stream of recruits "passed" the doctor took the oath, — not in the Mark Twain fashion — received their instructions and some wholesome advice, and became, what one and all of the able-bodied youth of the colony should be, members of our Hongkong Volunteers. Orders for uniform, &c., were served out to-day.

SAYS the Shanghai Courier — Sir Harry Parkes, H.B.M.'s Minister to China, is now in Corea for the purpose of negotiating a treaty with the government of that country. He left Chefoo about a fortnight ago in H.B.M.'s corvette Sapphir, and is accompanied by Mr. Aston, formerly Acting-Consul at Kobe, who is to take up his residence in Corea as H.B.M.'s Consul. We mentioned some time ago that land had been purchased for the British Consulate, and we now hear that the building is to be commenced as soon as possible. The Kestrel accompanied the Sapphir, and the two vessels were expected to anchor at Jenchuan, but Sir Harry Parkes was to be provided with accommodation at Seoul. Sir Harry expected to be absent from Peking a month or six weeks. The Honourable F. G. Grosvenor is acting as Chargé d'affaires during his absence.

We have had on several occasions to style the Editor of the North China Daily News an eminent noodle; we have now to show him up as an eminent — well, follower of Ananias. In the issue of the 6th inst. the Daily News informs its readers that the Editor of the Hongkong Telegraph was tried on the 20th ult. before Sir George Phillips for contempt of court, and that the Chief Justice, after hearing defendant and Mr. Francis, said that as Mr. Fraser-Smith had to answer a criminal charge of libel at the next criminal sessions, he would not imprison him now. The meaning intended to be conveyed by this contemptible piece of spite is obvious, and it is not the first time we have had to thank Mr. Balfour for similar attentions, backed up by equally barefaced perversions of truth. Fancy any person being tried for contempt of court. The talented Editor of the North China Daily News, who pretends to know everything, has apparently yet something to learn.

In connection with the sudden death of the hawkier at No. 312, Queen's Road West, upon whose body an inquest was held yesterday afternoon, the woman Tung Kung, with whom he lived, and a coolie named Chan Achun, were charged this morning before Mr. Woodhouse with the larceny of several articles of clothing, &c., the property of the deceased. Sergeant Forbes upon going to the house on the morning of the 8th instant, in consequence of a report made by the woman that a man was sick there, found the hawkier lying in a room dead, his brother being present. In another room he found the coolie in the act of packing up clothes, &c., in a bag. Forbes arrested the coolie, and also the woman, who claimed a pillow box and a bangle as her property. The dead man's brother presently came into the room and claimed the pillow box and the bangle as the deceased's property, and at the station he further claimed a bed quilt and four jackets as having also belonged to his brother. At the police Court this morning he stated that all the things in Court belonged to his brother. The coolie, in his defence, said he was sent for by the woman, and upon going to the house found the hawkier was dead. He told the woman to go and report at the station, and before she went she gave him the things belonging to the deceased and asked him to take charge of them. He packed up the articles, and when the woman returned he gave them back to her. — The woman said she had lived with the deceased for many years, and that most of the things in Court had been bought with her money. Mr. Woodhouse remarked that he did not think the charge of larceny could be sustained, but would remand the case to Monday the 13th instant. The inquest on the body of the hawkier was adjourned to the 15th instant, and as optimum poisoning is suspected, the contents of the stomach were ordered to be analysed.

SIXTH police constable 536 was charged this morning before Mr. Woodhouse with misconduct as a police constable, and being in unlawful possession of a cushion. It appears the defendant went on duty at 6 o'clock last evening and left his beat at 8 o'clock, returning to the Central Station minus his carbine, shoes and lamp, but carrying in his hand a sofa cushion and two antimacassars. He was seen to put the cushion and covers under his bed, and another constable reported the matter to the jemadar, who went to defendant's room, where he found him standing near his bed. The jemadar asked him why he had left his beat and without his arms. Defendant made no reply, nor did he make any reply to the enquiry as to where he got the cushion, &c., from, but on the way down to the charge room he said, "Excuse me, I cannot say my names." — Mr. Woodhouse appeared for the defendant, and elicited from the jemadar that he (defendant) had been 31 years in the force and bore a fair character, but had been twice reported for being drunk on duty. Mr. Wotton also put some questions to the jemadar with the view of eliciting that the defendant was weak in the head, and was in the habit of acting foolishly, but the jemadar did not admit that such was the case. He said defendant had a row with another constable some time ago, the latter having accused him of stealing his keys, which defendant denied, but that the keys were found in his box. — Jemadar Macleod said he asked defendant what he had done with his carbine, but he could give no account of it, and said it would likely be where he had got the cushion. The Inspector sent Constable Woods with him to search for it. The defendant took the constable to Boulder Lodge, occupied by Mr. de Costa, and said it might be there somewhere. Upon making enquiries of Mr. de Costa, he said his coolie had found a carbine, a pair of shoes and a policeman's lamp in the garden, and he handed over the things, which were the missing articles. On being asked if he had missed a cushion, Mr. de Costa said he had, and that he found in the possession of the defendant from the description given of it, by Constable Woods. — The cushion and covers, it appears, were abstracted from the front-room of Mr. de Costa's residence. — In reply to Mr. Wotton, Woods said prisoner did not seem foolish, but he told him he had been drinking before went on duty. — At this stage Mr. Woodhouse said it would be better to have Mr. de Costa's coolie's evidence, which would complete the case, and that he would adjourn the case to Monday. Mr. Wotton said that if he had an interpreter it might not be necessary to adjourn it, as the prisoner might admit the charge. — The case was, however, remanded to Monday at 10 p.m., and bail allowed in two sureties of $20 each.

SHANGHAI.

The steam dredger Anding has once more returned to Woosung.

The C.M.S.N. Co.'s steamer Haiting, at present in the Tungkadoo Dock, has been cut in two, preparatory to being lengthened 45 feet.

The wreck of the steamers Shunlei and Hangwang south of the Shantung Promontory demonstrated the necessity for a lighthouse in the neighbourhood, and the one that is being built off the South-East Promontory is rapidly approaching completion. Mr. C. M. Henderson is now on a specially appointed vessel, in connection with the work, and the light is expected very soon to be in working order.

M. Tricou, the recently appointed but retiring French Minister to China, is expected to arrive from the North in the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company's steamer El Dorado, which left Tientsin on the 1st inst. The object of M. Tricou's visit to Peking, whence he is returning, is secluded in mystery. When his negotiations with Li Hung-chang in reference to the Annam dispute were suspended in Shanghai, it was reported that M. Tricou did not intend to leave the city. It would be a strange coincidence, however, for a minister representing the Great Republic of France to leave China without seeing the high officials at Peking, and the object of M. Tricou's trip thither would appear to be solely an act of courtesy to the dignitaries of the Tsing-ti Yamen. While in Peking, he paid them a formal visit, and the interview, which lasted nearly an hour, was of the most cordial character, all allusion to the objectionable Annam question being studiously avoided. This information is obtained from a most trustworthy source, and we have every reason to believe that it is perfectly reliable. — Courier.

The Chinese gunboat Tai-shan, which during the last few weeks has undergone some extensive repairs at the Arsenal, went on her trial trip on the morning of the 1st instant. Whilst passing the Spanish strait Legajo, the Chinese war-vessel fired a salute, in order most likely, to knock some of the rust of her guns away. She was flying some high Mandarin's flag at her fore. There were a great number of Chinese officials on board. On account of ill health, Mr. Chao Yuen-tsoo requested H.E. the Tao-tai to appoint another to succeed him as official translator, therefore, the Tao-tai has granted his request and appointed Mr. Kwong Ki-chiu, a Cantonese, to take the office. Mr. Chao has been appointed to another office connected with foreign affairs. Mr. Kwong, who was connected with the Educational Department, has been in the United States for nine years; he took charge of the first lot of Chinese youths that went to America in 1874 to be educated, and we have no doubt he is well qualified to fulfil the duties of his new appointment. — Mercury.

FOOCHOW.

We are informed that Chang Meng Yuan, who has been Imperial Commissioner at Miao Arsenal for a long period, has been appointed to the Treasuryship of Canton, and leaves for that port in No. 13 Gun-boat on the 10th instant. The vacant office is to be re-filled by Ho Juh Chang, a Canton subject, and late Minister to Japan.

The rice harvest, which commenced on Saturday last, is taken generally, of a meagre description; as although long in the straw, the ear is far from being replete, and more than one huge troop surrounding the Settlement has every appearance of having suffered from blight. The natives, however, do not show any signs of despondency in regard to the shortage of the crop, and upon interrogating one Chinaman, we were informed that "Joss could save" that a smaller amount of the natives' chief diet was required this year, owing to the sudden decline in the population. It is nevertheless proverbial that Foochow cannot produce the amount of rice annually consumed, and is to a great extent dependent upon adjacent provinces.

Although the 21st day of the ninth moon is the date usually appointed for the change in the costume of Chinese officials, the heat, for the present time of year is so intense that the authorities have deemed it advisable this season, to leave the change of garments optional to the wearers. This decision is, we learn, fully appreciated by the natives generally, and especially by the pawn-brokers, who are enabled to exact exorbitant interest upon the official clothing temporarily deposited, which has eventually to be redeemed at even any cost. Of course, the summer clothing is substituted when the warmer garments are recovered, but the difference in the amount of loan obtainable for their flimsy summer attire and their heavily padded winter apparel is considerable.

We hear of two deaths from hydrophobia occurring in the City last week, one of the victims being the widow of a recently deceased native shopkeeper, and the other a youth serving a trade apprenticeship. Both of the unfortunate persons were bitten almost simultaneously by the same animal, and only a few days afterwards the symptoms of rabies were displayed. We learn that although the agencies of the deceaseds were exorcising, still they were of shorter duration than in instances where foreigners have been the sufferers. This is probably attributable to their lack of strength, through poor dietary, to battle with illness, and this was fully exemplified during the recent epidemic, when many succumbed to the dire disease, chiefly through the body being insufficiently nourished. Of course, however, in such painful cases as hydrophobia, for which there is no cure, the earlier sufferers are released from their miseries, and prevented from endangering the lives of others, the better.

In the Herald's last issue, we alluded to the fact of the proclamation issued last year by the Chinese authorities prohibiting the sale of kerosene oil, having been so utterly ignored as to necessitate the publication of a further notification by the Sub-Prefect. After allowing reasonable time to elapse between the citation of the present and any action being taken, the police runners, have made a raid upon the various shopkeepers known to be dealing in this commodity, and after taking stock, fixed a period in which to sell out — warning the vendors against laying it further store. The Elders of the various wards are now directed to see that the mandate is strictly carried out, and with the assistance of Taipans and mandarins, they are hopeful of soon stopping the trade entirely. We learn that many native tradesmen have disposed of the whole of their stocks at a considerable sacrifice, rather than be subjected to an incessant "squeeze" by the police runners. — Herald.

HANKOW.

[FROM A CORRESPONDENT.]

HANKOW, 31st October.
The monthly Golf meeting was held this afternoon to compete for a handsome silver cup presented by Captain Martin. The weather was most favourable, the greens were in excellent order, and a goodly number of spectators turned out to see the play. Only ten members came forward, and the following couples started: — viz: Mr. Marsh and Mr. Ferrier; Dr. Begg and Mr. McGregor; Mr. Price and Mr. Sharp; Mr. Leith and Mr. Wood; Mr. Ramsay and Mr. Westcott. After two rounds of the green had been played, and the cards compared with the averages arranged, three were found to be below, and seven above, the cup being won by Mr. McGregor with a score of 86 strokes, being nine below. The play throughout was good, and some very good scores were made; the lowest being by Mr. Ferrier, who came in at 73 strokes, being seven below.

TIENTSIN.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

October 27th, 1888.
To-day at 3 p.m. Li Hung-chang paid his second visit to M. Tricou, Minister for France. M. Tricou is firm in his demands; he will leave here by the next steamer, but would have left to-day had it not been for Li's second visit.

Our Chinese friends say they are in possession of telegrams stating that the Black Flag attacked Hanoi, defeated the French troops and that they (the Black Flag) are settled down at Hanoi. If true, the Chinese are right in saying, "boisterous" that the French could be the Annamese but not the Black Flag. Some-where or other our Chinese friends manage to get earlier information than anyone else; this may be on account of the firm attitude taken by the Chinese Government against M. Tricou's demands. They also say that Mr. Patten, new French Minister, is not coming to China, and that the French troops have passed Singapore.

We hear no further news of importance, except that no arrangements have been come to between France and China in the Annam question.

October 29th, 1888.
M. Tricou leaves by this steamer (Pontak). As far as is known Li Hung-chang has firmly refused all the propositions and demands of the French Minister, even Abbe Couraux's claims and Mr. Dillon's expenses to Manchuria and back.

Tsang Kuo-chuan passed Cheng Kiang-poo on the 14th on his way to Peking to answer the charges brought against him by Chang Shue-sheng, which Tsang Yui-hsin has been ordered to investigate. It is said to be on account of his having drawn the pay of two regiments of coolies of old Hunan, which never existed except on paper, and this was reported to the Emperor.

NOTES FROM JAPANESE PAPERS.

The submarine cable between Nagasaki and Pusan, Korea, has nearly been laid.

Soldiers have been prohibited from reading books other than those concerning their duties.

The Korean Government has despatched officers to the various adjoining islands to inspect the state of affairs obtaining there.

H.I.J.M.'s ship Nishin Kan has undergone extensive repairs at the Yokosuka Dockyard. She will shortly leave for Korea.

A telegram from England announces that the steamer Oswari Maru, built in London for the Union Shipping Association, has sailed for Japan.

An epidemic is reported to be prevalent among cattle in the Prefecture of Kumamoto to such an extent that three hundred horses and ten oxen died between July and September last.

According to recent information, some Chinese in Korea have lately presented the king with a volume of the New Testament. The king handed it over to the Foreign Department with orders to investigate the contents of the book. — It is said that one of the officers of that Department — probably Kim Kyoung-jip — tore it to pieces, declaring that Christianity ought never to be believed, and that measures should immediately be taken to expel the Chinese from the peninsula, should they repeat the attempt to circulate such books in contravention of the official prohibition.

At about 7 p.m. on the 27th ultimo, when the ceremony of conferring diplomas upon the graduates of the Imperial University in Tokyo was concluded, a mob of about fifty scholars assembled, yelling like demons, to create a riot. The President of the University, as well as other functionaries, did their best to disperse the mob, but the rioters would not listen to their advice. Meanwhile, the mob was reinforced by about two or three hundred students, with whom it appears arrangements had previously been made to create a disturbance. These broke into the various apartments of the school, and destroyed lamps, and windows, and everything else they could lay hands on. The police interfered, and succeeded in dispersing the mob with great difficulty on the morning of the ensuing day. — Japan Mail.
